

Barolo Docg Vigna Terlo Costa Grimaldi

Vintage 2015

Denomination: Barolo Docg

Variety: Nebbiolo

Seasonal trend: 2015 began with a winter characterized by heavy snowfall that allowed an excellent water supply of land. This factor combined with a spring with mild temperatures since the month of February allowed an advance of the vegetative cycle that was then maintained in the continuation of the year. The budding was regular and anticipated compared to 2014 and the flowering began around the middle of May. The season continued with a series of precipitation between the end of May and the first ten days of June. From the second half of June and for the whole month of July, the rains have been absent and the temperatures have stabilized on above-average highs, abundantly above 30 ° C. However, the heat did not cause any stress to the vineyards thanks to the abundant water reserves accumulated in the first months of the year.

From the quantitative point of view we have seen, on average, productions in the standard, this has allowed us to intervene with targeted and careful thinning. Particular attention this year has had to be paid to the management of the foliage in the vineyard: given the abundant amount of solar radiation, we had to proceed with caution in order not to discover too much the bunches and not have damage due to burns. We can store the vintage as one of the best in recent years.

In fact, the Nebbiolo has matured perfectly: in the second part of the summer a climatic trend has been noticed such as to allow an excellent accumulation of polyphenols. During analytical control, an excellent quality of tannins emerges which will certainly guarantee elegant and long-lasting structured wines.
